Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path. I have sworn, and I will perform it, that I will keep Thy righteous judgments. I am afflicted very much: quicken me, O Lord, according unto Thy word. Accept, I beseech thee, the freewill offerings of my mouth, O Lord, and teach me Thy judgments. My soul is continually in my hand: yet do I not forget thy law. The wicked have laid a snare for me: I erred not from Thy precepts. ...timonies have I taken as an heritage ... they are the rejoicing of my heart. ...ine heart to perform Thy ... unto the end.

MATTHEW

JESUS THE KING IN DAVID'S LINE

Since the last Old Testament prophet, Malachi (c. 440 BC), God had said nothing to his people. But suddenly, he speaks again—through Jesus, and Matthew's "Gospel" (Greek for "good news") is the first of four books about his life and message. While each Gospel has its own purpose, Matthew, Mark, and Luke are similarly constructed and are called the "Synoptic" (Greek for "seen together") Gospels.

Although anonymous, early tradition ascribes this Gospel to Matthew, the tax collector, one of the Twelve (Matt 9:9). Matthew is the most Jewish gospel, with many Old Testament references, and was probably written in the late 50s or early 60s AD.

The Anticipated King

Matthew claims that Jesus is Israel's long-awaited king and Messiah. To prepare us for these claims, he begins with Jesus' genealogy (1:1-17), showing his link to David, Israel's greatest king, and Abraham, the father of the Jewish people. He is (1:18) "Jesus the Messiah" (or Jesus Christ—Christ is the Greek translation of "Messiah"), the long-expected deliverer. Matthew shows how this Messiah is, against all Jewish expectation, both God and man.

He records the miraculous way that Jesus—"Immanuel, God with us"—came into this world (1:18-25) and how his birth was acknowledged even by Gentiles (2:1-12). But Jesus was also fully human: fleeing a brutal persecution that fulfilled Old Testament prophecy (vv. 13-18), growing up like all of us (vv. 19-23), being baptized by John (3:13-17), and experiencing temptation (4:1-11). But with the preparations over, his ministry could begin (4:12-17). He called his first disciples (vv. 18-22) and began teaching and healing (vv. 12-25).

The New Moses

Matthew's gospel is well-organized, as we might expect from a former tax collector. He builds his story of Jesus a[round] [five] long teaching blocks, all concluding with "when Jesus had finished" (7:[28]; 11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1) and interspersed with smaller blocks of teaching and mir[acles]. [Jesus] was probably meant to reflect the five bo[oks] [of] Jewish readership as "the new Mo[ses]."

1. The Sermon on the [Mount] (chap. 5-7)
2. The Commission o[f the] (chap. 10)
3. Parables of the K[ingdom] (chap. 13)
4. The Messiah's C[hurch] (chap. 18)
5. The Olivet Disc[ourse] (chap. 24-25)

Miracles and Teaching

The first block of teaching, The Sermon on the Mount (chap. 5-7), explained what God's Kingdom is like. It turns this world's values upside down (5:2-12), especially those of the religious elite. It calls us to love enemies (5:43-44), to live by "the golden rule" (7:12), and to trust God as Father (6:9; see article at chap. 6). He taught us how to pray to the Father (6:5-14) and trust him (6:19-34).

In chapters 8-9 we find many kinds of miracles, showing Jesus' power (8:27), authority (9:6) and compassion (9:36). This section includes the call of Matthew himself (9:9-13) and Jesus sending out his disciples to preach and heal (chap. 10).

All of this led to increasing tensions with the religious leaders (e.g., 12:1-50; 15:1-20; 16:1-12) and rejection by his home town (13:53-58).

Chapter 13 groups seven parables (see chart at chap. 13) that teach about the Kingdom of Heaven (Matthew used "Kingdom of Heaven" instead of "Kingdom of God" because of Jewish sensibilities about using God's name). More Kingdom parables are found in chapters 18 and 20.

Two significant miracles—feeding 5,000 (14:13-21) and walking on water (14:22-33)—lead into two key events: Peter's confession of Jesus as "the Messiah, the Son of the living God" (16:16) and Jesus' Transfiguration (17:1-13).

The Final Week

Matthew spends a substantial part of his Gospel (chap. 21 onwards) focusing on the final week of Jesus' life. This in itself shows how important he believed this was.

He begins with Jesus' triumphant entry into Jerusalem and cleansing of the Temple (21:1-17). Jesus teaches right to the end, especially about the End Times (chap. 24-25), warning that false messiahs and false prophets will come (24:24) and providing numerous "signs of the times"—though the main emphasis is not on signs but on living in constant readiness for his return, like faithful stewards who know they will be held accountable (see article at chap. 25).

Chapters 26-27 cover Jesus' final hours: the last supper, prayer in Gethsemane, betrayal, Peter's denial, his trials, crucifixion and burial. Through all of this, he is faithfully submitting to his Father's will (26:39). The disciples' sadness turns to great joy when he rises from the dead (28:1-10)—a truth opposed from the very beginning (vv. 11-15).

The Gospel climaxes with the risen Lord Jesus sending his followers into the world to preach his message and make disciples ("the Great Commission")—a core aspect of the church's mission (see article at chap. 28).

SALVATION IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

Salvation is a significant theme in the Old Testament, but it simply points to and prepares for the salvation through Jesus Christ, the greatest act of salvation the world would ever know.

Jesus the Savior

Our first introduction to Jesus in the New Testament is as the longed-for Messiah and Savior (Luke 1:68-70; 2:10-11). We see his acts of salvation throughout the Gospels, saving people from sickness, uncleanness, circumstances, and above all from sin (e.g., Matt 8:28-9:34; Mark 1:40-2:12). But it was his death and resurrection that ultimately confirmed he was the Savior, as the first Christians boldly proclaimed, offering salvation in his name and calling on people to repent and believe in him (e.g., Acts 2:22-40; 5:30-31; 13:23-39).

Salvation through Christ's Death on the Cross

When Jesus died on the cross, he offered his life as a sacrifice for our sins (Matt 26:27-28; Rom 3:23-26; Heb 9:11-12) and as a ransom to free us from the control of sin and Satan (Mark 10:45; 1 Pet 1:18-20; Rev 5:9). This salvation is God's free gift (Rom 6:23; Eph 2:1-9; Titus 3:3-7); we receive it by repenting of our sins and trusting in Jesus (e.g., Acts 2:37-39).

What Does It Mean to Be Saved?

While we are saved from sin, we are also saved for a purpose. Salvation isn't just about going to heaven when we die, although that is certainly included (Luke 23:40-43). It is about experiencing God's Kingdom now and sharing that with others. God wants us to live as his children (Rom 8:14-17; Gal 3:26-29), be committed to the church, the body of Christ (1 Cor 12:12-31; Eph 2:19-22), be fruitful in our service (John 15:1-8, 16; 1 Cor 15:58), and share the Good News with others (Matt 28:18-20; Acts 1:7-8).

The Assurance of Salvation

Only when Jesus returns will our salvation be complete, when he gives us our resurrection bodies (1 Cor 15:50-58). But we need not fear we may not reach that day. His Spirit within us is "God's guarantee that he will give us the inheritance he promised" (Eph 1:14; Rom 8:15-16). We are promised that "God, who began the good work within you, will continue his work until it is finally finished on the day when Christ Jesus returns" (Phil 1:6). Firmly taking hold of this promise makes us confident and helps us grow.

A NEW THING

"See, I am doing a new thing! Now it springs up; do you not perceive it? I am making a way in the wilderness and streams in the wasteland." ISA. 43:19, NIV

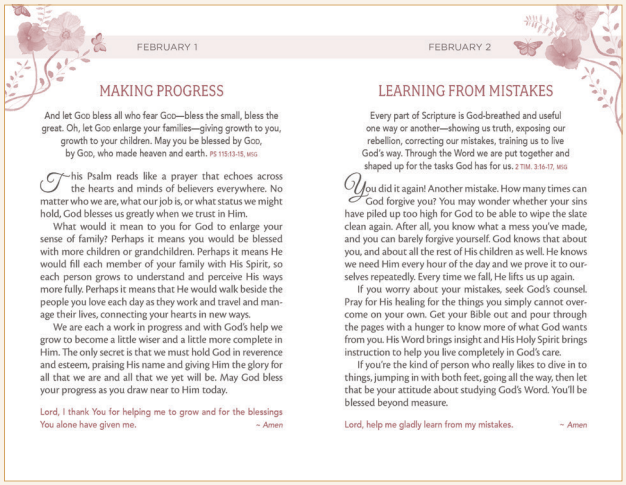

Do you remember what it was like when you loved to try new things? You know, you were curious about the world and you wanted to learn as much as you could because everything was fascinating. If you're thinking that you haven't had that experience since you were about seven, then maybe God wants you to try again.

When you're curious about life, you put yourself out there to discover what else there is. When you're curious about God, you dive into His Word and you devote time to prayer because you know that you have many things to learn. Imagine that today, God is talking directly to you. Imagine that He is suggesting to you that He wants to begin a new thing in your heart. He wants you to discover more of what He has for you. Would you be ready to receive His gift to you?

If you've been living in a way that is no longer flourishing, no longer feeling vital and new, then open your heart and your mind to all that God can do. He may truly want to do a new thing in you!

Lord, open my eyes to any new things You may want to do in my life. Thank You, Jesus! ~ Amen

MAKING PROGRESS

And let GOD bless all who fear GOD—bless the small, bless the great. Oh, let GOD enlarge your families—giving growth to you, growth to your children. May you be blessed by GOD, by GOD, who made heaven and earth. PS 115:13-15, MSG

This Psalm reads like a prayer that echoes across the hearts and minds of believers everywhere. No matter who we are, what our job is, or what status we might hold, God blesses us greatly when we trust in Him.

What would it mean to you for God to enlarge your sense of family? Perhaps it means you would be blessed with more children or grandchildren. Perhaps it means He would fill each member of your family with His Spirit, so each person grows to understand and perceive His ways more fully. Perhaps it means that He would walk beside the people you love each day as they work and travel and manage their lives, connecting your hearts in new ways.

We are each a work in progress and with God's help we grow to become a little wiser and a little more complete in Him. The only secret is that we must hold God in reverence and esteem, praising His name and giving Him the glory for all that we are and all that we yet will be. May God bless your progress as you draw near to Him today.

Lord, I thank You for helping me to grow and for the blessings You alone have given me. ~ Amen

LEARNING FROM MISTAKES

Every part of Scripture is God-breathed and useful one way or another—showing us truth, exposing our rebellion, correcting our mistakes, training us to live God's way. Through the Word we are put together and shaped up for the tasks God has for us. 2 TIM. 3:16-17, MSG

You did it again! Another mistake. How many times can God forgive you? You may wonder whether your sins have piled up too high for God to be able to wipe the slate clean again. After all, you know what a mess you've made, and you can barely forgive yourself. God knows that about you, and about all the rest of His children as well. He knows we need Him every hour of the day and we prove it to ourselves repeatedly. Every time we fall, He lifts us up again.

If you worry about your mistakes, seek God's counsel. Pray for His healing for the things you simply cannot overcome on your own. Get your Bible out and pour through the pages with a hunger to know more of what God wants from you. His Word brings insight and His Holy Spirit brings instruction to help you live completely in God's care.

If you're the kind of person who really likes to dive in to things, jumping in with both feet, going all the way, then let that be your attitude about studying God's Word. You'll be blessed beyond measure.

Lord, help me gladly learn from my mistakes. ~ Amen

TRUE WORSHIP

Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship.
ROMANS 12:1

People usually equate worship with music. When was your greatest moment of worship? Maybe you're thinking about a song that gave you the chills. Years ago, I attended a men's conference called Promise Keepers. It was held at the football stadium in San Diego where the Chargers played. Fifty thousand men were in attendance and the music and singing were amazing. I remember standing there as we sang the classic hymn "A Mighty Fortress is Our God." Fifty thousand men there belting out the chorus! I had chills from head to toe, but that type of worship is not what our verse is about today.

The Bible teaches here that true worship is less about music and more about how we live. Music is important, but real worship is not about the goose bumps. It's about obeying God. We are called to be a living sacrifice. Our greatest moments of worship will probably not be at church, but in the privacy of our own homes. It's when we choose to be honest instead of lie, when we run from lust instead of giving into it, when we choose patience instead of anger. Worship is when obeying God costs us something. It's fueled by remembering God's mercy, and in that remembrance we sacrifice. Songs of worship are good, but a life of worship is better.

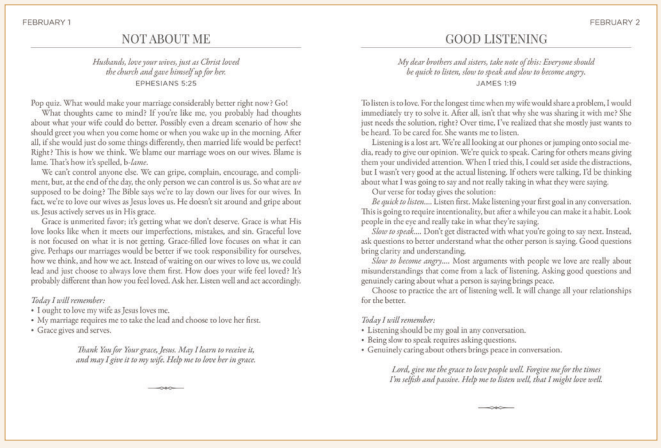

Today I will remember:
- Real worship is about how I live.
- It's less about singing and more about how I am living.

God, I want to worship You with my life. When I sing at church, I pray that it's simply a reflection of how I'm living. The more I think of Your mercy toward me, the more I want to live for You.

MARRIAGE

Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her.
Ephesians 5:25

FEBRUARY 1

NOT ABOUT ME

Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her.
EPHESIANS 5:25

Pop quiz. What would make your marriage considerably better right now? Go!

What thoughts came to mind? If you're like me, you probably had thoughts about what your wife could do better. Possibly even a dream scenario of how she should greet you when you come home or when you wake up in the morning. After all, if she would just do some things differently, then married life would be perfect! Right? This is how we think. We blame our marriage woes on our wives. Blame is lame. That's how it's spelled, b-lame.

We can't control anyone else. We can gripe, complain, encourage, and compliment, but, at the end of the day, the only person we can control is us. So what are we supposed to be doing? The Bible says we're to lay down our lives for our wives. In fact, we're to love our wives as Jesus loves us. He doesn't sit around and gripe about us. Jesus actively serves us in His grace.

Grace is unmerited favor; it's getting what we don't deserve. Grace is what His love looks like when it meets our imperfections, mistakes, and sin. Graceful love is not focused on what it is not getting. Grace-filled love focuses on what it can give. Perhaps our marriages would be better if we took responsibility for ourselves, how we think, and how we act. Instead of waiting on our wives to love us, we could lead and just choose to always love them first. How does your wife feel loved? It's probably different than how you feel loved. Ask her. Listen well and act accordingly.

Today I will remember:
- I ought to love my wife as Jesus loves me.
- My marriage requires me to take the lead and choose to love her first.
- Grace gives and serves.

Thank You for Your grace, Jesus. May I learn to receive it, and may I give it to my wife. Help me to love her in grace.

GOOD LISTENING

My dear brothers and sisters, take note of this: Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry.
JAMES 1:19

To listen is to love. For the longest time when my wife would share a problem, I would immediately try to solve it. After all, isn't that why she was sharing it with me? She just needs the solution, right? Over time, I've realized that she mostly just wants to be heard. To be cared for. She wants me to listen.

Listening is a lost art. We're all looking at our phones or jumping onto social media, ready to give our opinion. We're quick to speak. Caring for others means giving them your undivided attention. When I tried this, I could see aside the distractions, but I wasn't very good at the actual listening. If others were talking, I'd be thinking about what I was going to say and not really taking in what they were saying.

Our verse for today gives the solution:

Be quick to listen... Listen first. Make listening your first goal in any conversation. This is going to require intentionality, but after a while you can make it a habit. Look people in the eye and really take in what they're saying.

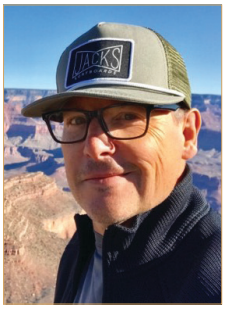

Slow to speak... Don't get distracted with what you're going to say next. Instead, ask questions to better understand what the other person is saying. Good questions bring clarity and understanding.

Slow to become angry... More arguments with people we love are really about misunderstandings that come from a lack of listening. Asking good questions and genuinely caring about what a person is saying brings peace.

Choose to practice the art of listening well. It will change all your relationships for the better.

Today I will remember:
- Listening should be my goal in any conversation.
- Being slow to speak requires asking questions.
- Genuinely caring about others brings peace in conversation.

Lord, give me the grace to love people well. Forgive me for the times I'm selfish and passive. Help me to listen well, that I might love well.

Splashing Joy

Joy-seeds are planted in good heart soil. So, God's people, shout praise to Goo, give thanks to our Holy God!

PSALM 97:11-12 MSG

The beginning of a new year is a good time to take stock and assess goals for the coming year. For me, that means sitting on the wooden swing in my backyard beneath the canopy of oak trees and spending some quality face time with Papa God. This year, I feel compelled to get more in touch with my Jesus-joy, which flows deep in the veins of believers but is sometimes buried beneath the cares of the world which can pile up and block the flow like a beaver's dam if we let them. And sadly, I do. I allow worries and problems to collect like logs and make me lose touch with the refreshing, bubbling joy of knowing Jesus.

But I'm going to do better this year. I'm going to be cognizant that Jesus-joy is ninety percent gratitude and comes from knowing what Jesus did for me—not deterred by my circumstances—and choose to rejoice in His presence daily. Even though I may not feel joyful every moment, if I know Jesus as my friend and Savior, joy is always accessible. And I'd much rather live a lighthearted, joyful life than be oppressed by the joy-sucking dully-funks (my term for the blahs).

As one of my longtime faith heroes, Jill Briscoe, says, "Joy is faith dancing." Yep. I think I need a little more dancing in my life. How about you? Jill also says, "God, through His spirit, grants us love, joy, and peace no matter what is happening in our lives. As Christians, we shouldn't expect our joy to always feel like happiness, but instead recognize joy as inner security—a safeness in our life with Christ."

I plan to get drenched this year in the joy of the Lord, where my very strength comes from (Nehemiah 8:10). And when Jesus-joy saturates me and overflows, I want it to splash onto everyone around me.

Prayer: Precious Savior, fill me with Your joy and peace as I trust daily in You, so that my joy may overflow onto those around me by the power of the Holy Spirit. All praise to You! Amen.

Blessings: Be One, Get One

Bless—that's your job, to bless. You'll be a blessing and also get a blessing.

1 PETER 3:9 MSG

Two women stood before a display of prepackaged bags of apples at the supermarket. Each lifted a bag to examine the apples, pondering completely different dilemmas. One wondered, Will this be enough for my daughter's sleepover this weekend, or should I buy oranges too? While the second woman thought, My kids would love these, but I don't have enough money for both meat and fruit this week. She put the bag down.

The first woman saw her defeated expression, discerned the situation, and lifted a silent prayer for guidance in how she might somehow bless this stranger. Then she noticed the BOGO (Buy One, Get One free) sign. "Excuse me," she said to the woman who was turning to walk away, "I only need one bag of apples but they're BOGO this week. Would you like the other bag? If you check out behind me, you can just take it on your way out."

Most of us are acquainted with BOGO offers at the grocery store, but did you know Papa God offers us a BOGO on blessings? Just look at today's verse—if we do our job correctly as Christ-followers, we'll not only be a blessing to others (and to our Savior), but we'll also get one in return. Sounds like a terrific deal to me! Isn't God's generosity incredible? I don't know about you, but I need all the blessings I can get.

The word bless appears over 500 times in the Bible and can be defined as "to divinely care for." That planks our heavenly Father smack dab in the middle of all our blessings, since divine means "from God." Sacred. Anointed. Intentional. He wants to be intricately involved in blessing our hearts and helping us bless other hearts. Blessing others often involves Christlike characteristics Papa God wants to cultivate in His children (us): joy, kindness, generosity, and patience, to name a handful. Few of us can say these are our forte, but cultivation is what solid growth is all about.

It's not always easy to bless hearts. But it's our job and our joy, so let's resolve to do it well!

Prayer: Benefactor of all blessings (Galatians 3:14), thank You for blessing my heart, and help me to take seriously my job of blessing others in Your name. Amen.

The Start of a New Journey

"Go in peace," the priest replied. "For the LORD is watching over your journey." Judges 18:6

If life is a journey, every year brings a brand-new traveling experience that starts in January and ends in December. Every one of these journeys will certainly bring about significant changes in your life. Therefore, at the beginning of each year, you should once again realize the importance of your journey's final destination—because if you do not arrive at the right destination in the end, your whole journey will have been in vain. In fact, your journey is doomed from the start if God is not with you every step of the way.

Do your best this year to travel in such a way that you will get the very best out of the year and make full use of every opportunity that comes your way. But most of all, make very sure that God is with you so that you will reach the right destination one day when your earthly journey has come to an end.

Every Day Is a Path of Joy

You have made known to me the paths of life; You will fill me with joy in Your presence. Acts 2:28 (NIV)

True joy is always from God. Even if many negative things happen to you, you can still live life fully and joyfully if you know God and love and trust Him to work things out for you. It is your own choice whether you will find joy on the path of this new year, or whether you will stumble along, filled with worries and cares.

This year God wants to teach you about the paths of the new year. He wants to walk ahead of you on unknown paths so that you will be filled with joy by His presence. Although you don't yet know what awaits you on these paths, God promises never to desert you. May your journey through life be a joyful, life-changing experience; may you discover new joys every day.

May you be blessed by God's presence every day of your journey.

Hallelujah! God Is King!

The LORD reigns forever; He has established His throne for judgment. Psalm 9:7 NIV

Kings and rulers govern their kingdoms for a short while and then disappear only to be replaced by someone new.

The Israelites needed more than a temporary, human king. Even though they had earthly kings, they knew that God was truly their King. His reign is without end and He is irreplaceable. They knew that they could always depend on Him because He is the same yesterday, today and forever.

People will forever look up to God to lead, judge and support them. He is guiding the world to the destiny that He has planned for it. Because of Jesus' earthly life, we know that God's rulership is not the kind of imperial might that earthly megalomaniacs long for. His reign is one of suffering love, saving grace, peace and truth. That is the throne to which Jesus ascended and from where He already rules with the Father. This is from where He will return in all His glory to come and claim His own.

JANUARY 2

Worship God in His Majesty

O LORD, our Lord, Your majestic name fills the earth! Psalm 8:9 NLT

In Bible times every nation had its own "god". "Jehovah!" was the name of the God of Israel. It was consequently somewhat challenging to declare that "His name is glorious over all the earth." Of course, they knew that their God was bigger than the borders of their limited little country. He was also the God over all the nations—of all the other people. That is why God was not just "our God" but also "the God of all the nations". He was God over all the earth!

These days we know about the existence of other planets, stars, heavenly bodies, and distant galaxies. All of creation belongs to Him and every part of it reveals something of His character to us. The sun, moon, stars, planets, oceans, mountains, rivers, forests, and every living creature display His glory.

So, stop focusing on inconsequential, insignificant things. See the wonder of the world and the greatness and majesty of God. Delight yourself in His presence. With joy and awe, worship the God whose name is wonderful over all the earth.

Lent—the 40 days leading up to Easter—is a time to pause and reflect on Jesus' sacrifice for us. Although it is a season to remember the seriousness of sin and its great cost to our Savior, this period of reflection is not meant to be depressing. Instead, the purpose of Lent is to renew our hope!

The Miracle of Easter encourages you to remember Jesus' death and to celebrate His resurrection. As you prepare for Easter, set aside a few moments to gaze upon the cross and to marvel at the empty tomb. Let this little book be your guide to renewed hope in our Savior.

REFLECTION

In what ways have you experienced the futility of the world? In what ways do you experience the fullness of the Kingdom? How can you participate in God's "renovation" program for the world?

CITIZENS of GLORY

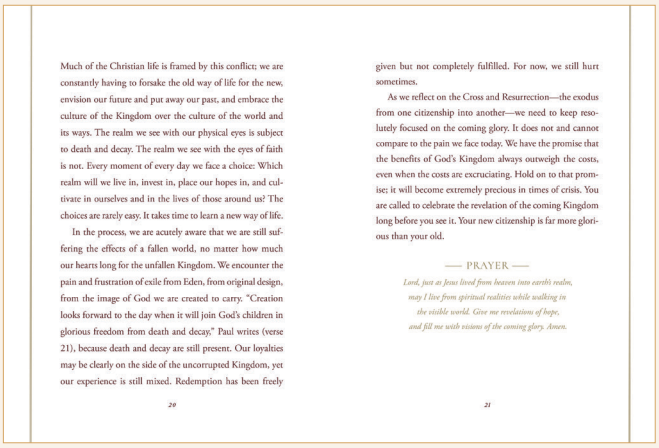

ROMANS 8:18-21

What we suffer now is nothing compared to the glory he will reveal to us later.
ROMANS 8:18

When a person seeks citizenship in a new country, he or she is usually required to renounce allegiance to the old one. Why? Because sometimes the national interests of different countries are in conflict. No country is well served by the double-minded. Loyalties must be clearly stated.

Those who have entered into a relationship with Christ live in two realms and, for a time, have dual citizenship. But we can retain our loyalty to only one, the world or the Kingdom, because their interests stand in conflict with each other.

Much of the Christian life is framed by this conflict; we are constantly having to forsake the old way of life for the new, envision our future and put away our past, and embrace the culture of the Kingdom over the culture of the world and its ways. The realm we see with our physical eyes is subject to death and decay. The realm we see with the eyes of faith is not. Every moment of every day we face a choice: Which realm will we live in, invest in, place our hopes in, and cultivate in ourselves and in the lives of those around us? The choices are rarely easy. It takes time to learn a new way of life.

In the process, we are acutely aware that we are still suffering the effects of a fallen world, no matter how much our hearts long for the unfallen Kingdom. We encounter the pain and frustration of exile from Eden, from original design, from the image of God we are created to carry. "Creation looks forward to the day when it will join God's children in glorious freedom from death and decay," Paul writes (verse 21), because death and decay are still present. Our loyalties may be clearly on the side of the uncorrupted Kingdom, yet our experience is still mixed. Redemption has been freely given but not completely fulfilled. For now, we still hurt sometimes.

As we reflect on the Cross and Resurrection—the exodus from one citizenship into another—we need to keep resolutely focused on the coming glory. It does not and cannot compare to the pain we face today. We have the promise that the benefits of God's Kingdom always outweigh the costs, even when the costs are excruciating. Hold on to that promise; it will become extremely precious in times of crisis. You are called to celebrate the revelation of the coming Kingdom long before you see it. Your new citizenship is far more glorious than your old.

— PRAYER —

Lord, just as Jesus lived from heaven into earth's realm, may I live from spiritual realities while walking in the visible world. Give me revelations of hope, and fill me with visions of the coming glory. Amen.

Longing for Home: 52 Devotional Reflections on the Hope of Heaven

Where is home for you? Maybe it is your childhood home or the place where you have raised a family. Most of us have been homesick at one time or another. We've felt a longing for home—for rest and comfort and belonging—that is not satisfied by our current circumstances.

Kate Motaung identifies with this longing while encouraging us to refocus our sense of home. She reminds us that if we have trusted Jesus, we will live with God forever. He is our true home! The 52 reflections in Longing for Home renew our hope of heaven and sharpen our desire to be in God's presence. They ask us to consider areas where we have made this temporary life more important than our eternal life with God, and they call us to live even now as if heaven is home.

WHEN HOME HURTS

For you are my rock and my fortress; and for your name's sake you lead me and guide me; you take me out of the net they have hidden for me, for you are my refuge.

PSALM 31:3-4

It's the child who lingers as long as possible on the school grounds after the building has been locked, shuffling feet and kicking pebbles, unwilling to leave, for fear of what he might find at home.

It's the single mom who got the final foreclosure letter from the bank in the mail and has nowhere else to turn.

It's the husband who stays late at the office every night then heads to the bar for drinks to numb the pain and diminish the number of hours he has to listen to his nagging wife and whining kids when he eventually drags himself home.

It's the widow suffocating from the tight grip of empty space, who cries silent tears into the screaming void of a lonely house.

For far too many, home hurts.

The bad news is, it will always hurt on this side of eternity. For those in situations where home hurts, where home is a place to be avoided at all costs … heaven might not be all that appealing. In fact, the very thought of being trapped in a home forever might sound downright appalling.

Almost every visit I made to the States during the ten years I lived in South Africa was motivated by my mom's terminal illness. While I was always grateful for the opportunity, a nagging fear remained in the pit of my stomach, like a hungry dog gnawing on a bone. I never knew what I would find on the other side of the ocean.

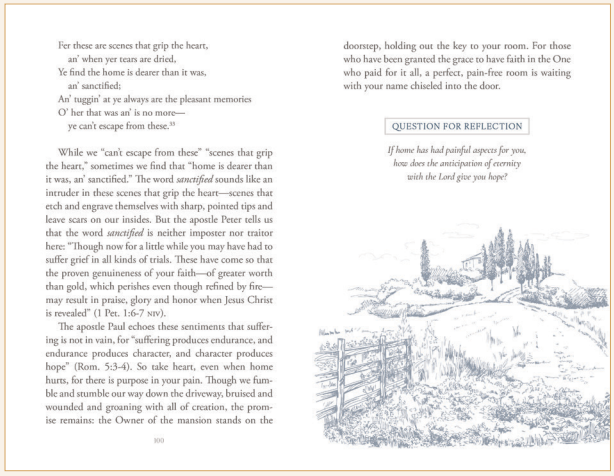

Often, it hurt.

It was wonderful and sometimes unbearably painful all at once. I wanted to be there and I wanted to run away, all at the same time. I wanted to capture the frames and freeze them into a still life, and I wanted to blot them with black ink so they would never be seen again.

One stanza from the poem "Home," by Edgar Guest, reminds me that sometimes the aching spots are the most tender spots, and may one day even morph into endearing memories:

Ye've got t' weep t' make it home,
ye've got t' sit an' sigh
An' watch beside a loved one's bed,
an' know that Death is nigh;
An' in the stillness o' the night t'
see Death's angel come,
An' close the eyes o' her that smiled,
an' leave her sweet voice dumb.

98 99

For these are scenes that grip the heart,
an' when yer tears are dried,
Ye find the home is dearer than it was,
an' sanctified;
An' tuggin' at ye always are the pleasant memories
O' her that was an' is no more—ye can't escape from these.[35]

While we "can't escape from these" "scenes that grip the heart," sometimes we find that "home is dearer than it was, an' sanctified." The word sanctified sounds like an intruder in these scenes that grip the heart—scenes that etch and engrave themselves with sharp, pointed tips and leave scars on our insides. But the apostle Peter tells us that the word sanctified is neither imposter nor traitor here: "Though now for a little while you may have had to suffer grief in all kinds of trials. These have come so that the proven genuineness of your faith—of greater worth than gold, which perishes even though refined by fire—may result in praise, glory and honor when Jesus Christ is revealed" (1 Pet. 1:6-7 NIV).

The apostle Paul echoes these sentiments that suffering is not in vain, for "suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces character, and character produces hope" (Rom. 5:3-4). So take heart, even when home hurts, for there is purpose in your pain. Though we fumble and stumble our way down the driveway, bruised and wounded and groaning with all of creation, the promise remains: the Owner of the mansion stands on the doorstep, holding out the key to your room. For those who have been granted the grace to have faith in the One who paid for it all, a perfect, pain-free room is waiting with your name chiseled into the door.

QUESTION FOR REFLECTION

If home has had painful aspects for you, how does the anticipation of eternity with the Lord give you hope?

Shaped by God

New

John Piper

GB308

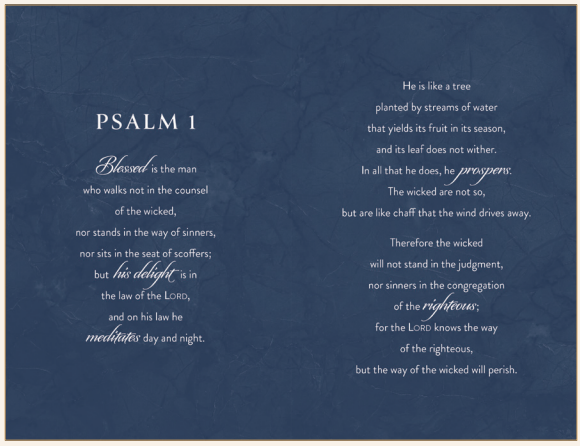

9 780638 003604

Shaped by God is a powerful reminder that God wants your heart. The whole Bible teaches truth and awakens emotions, but the Psalms are in a category of their own. They do not just awaken the heart; they put it in the foreground. They do not merely invite our emotions to respond to God's truth; they put our emotions on display.

The Psalms are more than commanding—they are contagious. We are not just listening to profound ideas and feelings. We are living among them in their overflow. We touch pillows wet with tears. We hear and feel the unabashed cries of affliction, shame, regret, grief, anger, discouragement, and turmoil. But what makes all this stunningly different from the sorrows of the world is that all of it—absolutely all of it—is experienced in relation to the totally sovereign God.

PSALM 1

Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the wicked,
nor stands in the way of sinners,
nor sits in the seat of scoffers;
but his delight is in the law of the LORD, and on his law he meditates day and night.

He is like a tree planted by streams of water that yields its fruit in its season,
and its leaf does not wither.
In all that he does, he prospers.
The wicked are not so,
but are like chaff that the wind drives away.

Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation
of the righteous;
for the LORD knows the way
of the righteous,
but the way of the wicked will perish.

Songs That Shape the Heart and Mind

PSALM 1

As we examine how we can learn to think and feel in tune with the Psalms, and come to be shaped by God, there are three things we should know about the Psalms: they are instructive, they are poems, and they are from God.

Psalms Are Instructive

First, the Psalms are meant to be instructive about God and human nature and life. When we read the Psalms, we are meant to learn things about God, and about human nature, and about how life is to be lived. Some poetry makes no claim to instruct the mind, but the Psalms do.

One of the pointers to this instruction (among many pointers, including the doctrinal use made of the Psalms in the New Testament) is that Psalm 1 introduces the whole book of Psalms. The book begins, in a sense, in Psalm 1:2, "His delight is in the law of the LORD, and on his law he meditates day and night." The word for law is torah, and the general meaning for torah is instruction. In other words, the Psalms cover the whole range of God's instruction, not just legal ordinances. The entire book of Psalms is introduced by a call to meditate on God's instruction.

Furthermore, consider the way the book of Psalms is structured. It is divided into five books that begin with Psalms 1, 42, 73, 90, and 107. Each collection of psalms ends with a kind of special doxology that marks the end of each book. From the earliest times, these five divisions have been seen as a conscious effort to make the Psalms parallel to the five books of Moses (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy), which are usually called the "law" books.[1]

So when Psalm 1 introduces all five books in the Psalter by saying that the righteous person meditates on the law of the Lord day and night, it probably means that these five books of Psalms, not just the five books of Moses, are the law of the Lord—the instruction of the Lord—that we should meditate on day and night. Therefore, for this reason and others, the Psalms are meant to be instructive about God and human nature and life.

Psalms Are Poems

The second thing we should know about the Psalms is that they are poems. That's what psalm means. They are meant to be read or sung as poetry or songs. The point

Day 1

Give all your worries and cares to God, for he cares about you.
1 Peter 5:7, NLT

Walking Beside Jesus on the Long Journey

We were in a little country church in the mountains of Virginia that Christmas Eve. As we stood for the final hymn, I was looking forward to gathering up the kids, heading back to my parents' cabin, and enjoying a glass of eggnog with my husband, Jeff, while we wrapped the last presents.

Suddenly, in the blink of an eye, something was drastically wrong. Our almost-eleven-year-old son, Luke, stiffened next to me, and then his whole body began to shake. In absolute shock I cried, "He's having a seizure!" and the church erupted.

The next terrifying hours were a blur—the minutes our son was without oxygen during a massive grand mal seizure; the equally scary "postictal" state of being semiconscious and unresponsive; the long race along dark rural roads to the nearest hospital, which was much too far away. It was the longest two hours of my life.

Learning that Luke had epilepsy was the beginning of a long journey, one that seemed even longer once we discovered that medication would control his bodily seizures but not the spikes in his brain. Our straight-A student was transformed into someone who had to work extremely hard just to listen, read, and learn. The same medications that slowed down his brain's dangerous electrical activity also slowed his processing speed and ability to follow group conversations. Suddenly, our friendly, class-clown son had extreme difficulty making friends.

I found myself constantly worrying about him. Each time the school called, my heart caught in my chest. Did he have a seizure? Each time I asked, "Who did you sit with at lunch?" and he answered, "No one," I died a little inside. Luke was generally strong about his new challenges, but in those moments when the dam broke and tears leaked down his cheeks because he couldn't comprehend the page he just read, my heart broke for him. My mind reeled with worries about his future.

You may know that feeling. Your long journey of worry is probably different, but in my research over the years, it is rare to find a mom whose mind doesn't occasionally travel down trails of anxiety or fear. Maybe your worry isn't medical, but about living in an unsafe neighborhood, the effects of an unwanted divorce, the daily bullying in middle school, or the pressure of grades in high school. That awareness is always there in the back of our minds.

A year or two into our epilepsy journey, I finally realized: The reason we worry is that we haven't yet grasped that the awesome God who created the heavens truly cares for us down here on earth. That is why Jesus came, after all. He is suffering with us in the moments of terror or heartbreak. He rejoices in the victories. When a boy who feels stupid and a mom whose heart quakes sit on the couch with tears running down their cheeks, God wraps His arms around both of them to bring peace.

Jesus promises to give us peace in the long journey if we will only take our anxieties and fears and give them to Him. The real journey is to walk alongside Him on the path He has for us—wherever it leads—knowing that it is set before us by One who loves us more than we can comprehend.

Katie Gal

In dark moments, we somehow believe that if God really loved us and our kids, He wouldn't let bad things happen. And yet Jesus tells us directly that in this world we will have trouble, but to take heart because He has overcome the world. There will be a day when this world and all its troubles are swept away. And what will be left is the same great God who loved us all along.

Prayer

Jesus, I give You the anxiety I'm experiencing over this hard thing that has come into my life. I wasn't expecting it, and I don't want it. Yet You promise to walk with me and care for me on the journey. I choose to put my focus on that fact and receive Your peace. I give You this situation knowing that You love me more than I can comprehend and that I can cast all my cares on You. Thank You for being my strength. I trust You, Lord. Amen.

Reflect

What is your long journey? Thinking back over the last few weeks and months, what are three signs that God is caring for you on your journey? How might keeping those things in mind change how you experience the next few months of the path?

COME TO THE TABLE

– Trina Titus Lozano –

Life Lesson from Mom: Set the table and make it pretty.

Almost every evening at 5:30 p.m. on the dot, I heard my mother's voice say, "Trina, set the table, make the salad, fill the glasses with tea. Add a garnish and make it pretty."

My creativity came to life during these formative years. My mom even taught me to fold the napkins in a fancy way. To this day, when I set the table, it reminds me of a lifetime of being with my mom, preparing for our beautiful and delicious family meals.

I know how to set the table properly because my mom did it every Saturday night in preparation for the extraordinary Sunday afternoon banquet she put on between the Sunday morning and evening services at the church where my father was preaching.

On Sunday mornings, Mom got up early, put the meal in the oven, and set the automatic timer. When we came home from church, the aroma of the gourmet meal cooked from scratch welcomed us the moment we walked through the front door. She always served Sunday dinner in the formal dining room on her best china. The flickering, tapered candles signified it was the Lord's Day, a special day.

The table was not set for four, the size of our family; the table was set for eight, ten, or twelve; and most of the time we were unaware of the strangers Mom and Dad would invite last minute for dinner. It could be people we'd seen crying at the altar; it could be the guest speaker, the town mayor, or a hitchhiker my dad picked up driving home from church that day. My parents often invited widows and orphans or anyone who needed a family connection. The homeless or inmates just released from prison were common guests around our table. One thing was for certain: they were all treated the same. Everyone felt love and peace—and the presence of Jesus—at our family table.

The same scenario could have been said about my great-grandmother and my grandmother, who always said, "I want to have a home exactly like the one I grew up in." During the Great Depression, my great-grandparents lived in Oklahoma in a time when people didn't have food or money. Despite the poverty around them, my great-grandmother beautified her dining room table with desert rose dishes and fed neighbors, hungry people, and traveling evangelists who came through town on horseback.

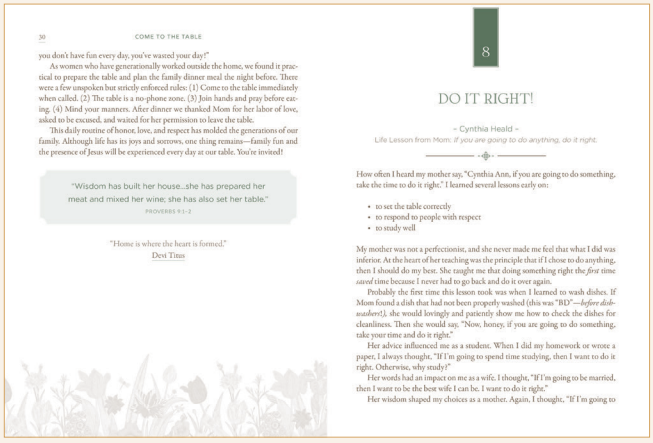

Then my grandmother carried on the family tradition. She usually kept a pie in the freezer to pull out and thaw during the church service, and she would graciously host whoever wanted to come to their home after church. The door was always open, and everyone was welcome. Any amount of food could be prepared at a moment's notice. Her dining room table was the centerpiece of the home my mom grew up in. If the rest of the house was messy, Grandma just closed the doors and set a pretty table.

More is caught than taught. As a child, I don't recall being told that eating together at the table was an important family value; it was something I experienced, and now my children and grandchildren experience it too. My mom learned from her mom, who learned from her mom, and she it passed on to me.

My dining table seats eighteen. That may sound crazy to you, but I have five generations to feed: four adult sons and daughters—so far, three are married—and I have twelve grandchildren. My grandmother lives with me; she's almost one hundred years old and still bakes the pies!

My favorite job to this day is setting the table, making the side dishes, and pouring the drinks. My grandchildren love it too and even help place the garnish on the glasses. They learned the proper table setting from my mom, their Mimi: a placemat or tablecloth (or maybe both); a centerpiece; forks on the left; knives and spoons on the right, party favors, and fresh flowers—or themed paper plates year-round.

People who follow me on social media often comment, "You host parties more than anyone I know." It might be a gourmet meal or corn dogs, carrot sticks, and Oreos for dessert. Whatever the menu, I love making it fun! My grandma says, "If you don't have fun every day, you've wasted your day!"

As women who have generationally worked outside the home, we found it practical to prepare the table and plan the family dinner meal the night before. There were a few unspoken but strictly enforced rules: (1) Come to the table immediately when called. (2) The table is a no-phone zone. (3) Join hands and pray before eating. (4) Mind your manners. After dinner we thanked Mom for her labor of love, asked to be excused, and waited for her permission to leave the table.

This daily routine of honor, love, and respect has molded the generations of our family. Although life has its joys and sorrows, one thing remains—family fun and the presence of Jesus will be experienced every day at our table. You're invited!

"Wisdom has built her house...she has prepared her meat and mixed her wine; she has also set her table."
PROVERBS 9:1-2

"Home is where the heart is formed."

DO IT RIGHT!

– Cynthia Heald –

Life Lesson from Mom: If you are going to do anything, do it right.

How often I heard my mother say, "Cynthia Ann, if you are going to do something, take the time to do it right." I learned several lessons early on:

- to set the table correctly
- to respond to people with respect
- to study well

My mother was not a perfectionist, and she never made me feel that what I did was inferior. At the heart of her teaching was the principle that if I chose to do anything, then I should do my best. She taught me that doing something right the first time saved time because I never had to go back and do it over again.

Probably the first time this lesson took was when I learned to wash dishes. If Mom found a dish that had not been properly washed (this was "BD"—before dish-washers!), she would lovingly and patiently show me how to check the dishes for cleanliness. Then she would say, "Now, honey, if you are going to do something, take your time and do it right."

Her advice influenced me as a student. When I did my homework or wrote a paper, I always thought, "If I'm going to spend time studying, then I want to do it right. Otherwise, why study?"

Her words had an impact on me as a wife. I thought, "If I'm going to be married, then I want to be the best wife I can be. I want to do it right."

Her wisdom shaped my choices as a mother. Again, I thought, "If I'm going to

77 Wise Words from Proverbs Every Kid Should Know

New

9 780638 004250

The Book of Proverbs is a treasure trove of wisdom on living a good life for God. Introduce your children to King Solomon's wise words in a fun and creative way, setting the foundation of right and wrong in their hearts and minds.

77 Wise Words from Proverbs Every Kid Should Know will help boys and girls ages 5-8 memorize 77 key Scripture verses from Proverbs in a fun and engaging way. Because repetition is the key to memorization, this easy-to-use tool makes memorizing Scripture as easy as 1–READ it, 2–WRITE it, and 3–COLOR it! First, they read the Scripture verse, then they write it out, and then they color in the creatively designed Scripture verse. A list of all the Scripture verses in the back makes it easy to tick off verses once memorized. Ideal for use in Sunday School and homeschooling Christian curriculum.

Growing Faith: 90 Devotional Stories for Families

New

Diana Kleyn

GB314

9 781639 529766

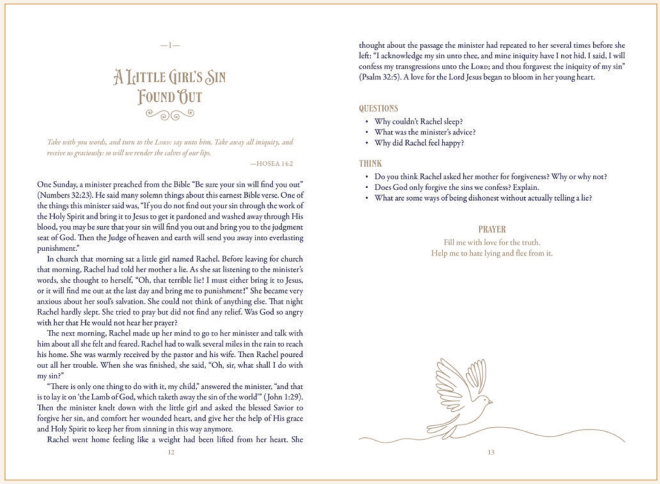

Testimonies about God's love and faithfulness strengthen faith. Growing Faith is filled with such stories. Some are about how God's Word took root in a person's life. Other stories are about how the Spirit helped the good fruit of obedience grow or how new seeds of faith were planted.

These 90 devotional stories include Scripture and reflection questions for children to consider on their own or for families to read and discuss together. Take encouragement from these long-treasured tales of God's goodness and grace.

Who Am I? Activity Book for Kids

9 780638 002294

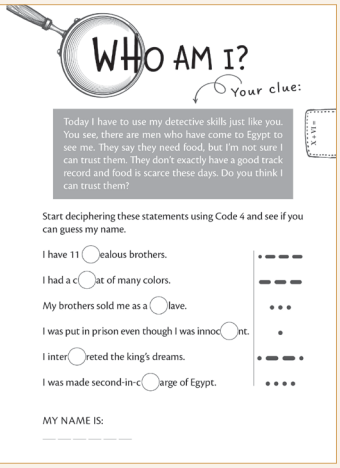

Are you looking for a fun and engaging way to teach your kids more about the Bible? Then look no further than Who Am I? This activity book for 8-12-year-olds combines learning about Bible characters and events with intriguing activities like cracking codes and solving puzzles. Who Am I? contains 50 mystery Bible characters whose names are hidden in code. A cryptic clue is given for each character followed by a coded message that contains a name. Once the code is cracked kids can research and learn more about the character. There are Old and New Testament characters, both familiar and unfamiliar—from Adam, Elijah, and Paul to Ehud, Dorcas, and Tertius. Kids will have fun pretending to be detectives with detective tips and tricks, including secret codes, a recipe for invisible ink, and instructions on taking fingerprints. A great way to keep them busy without screens!
